

Thomson Reuters Master Services Agreement

Discover how easy it is to purchase across multiple Thomson Reuters businesses

Simplicity: Making contract complexity obsolete

Why should you have to bother with separate contracts for every product and service you want to purchase? You shouldn't ... and that's why we introduced the Thomson Reuters Master Services Agreement (TRMSA) and associated schedules. The general terms of the TRMSA will apply to multiple products and services across Thomson Reuters businesses.

Ease: The no-hassle approach to contract and order execution

Avoid the complications of having to sign individual contracts for every product or service. Now you can order information services, software products, and professional services with one TRMSA. Your global affiliates can also order products or services under these same terms.

Speed: Efficiencies of the "one contract" way to purchase

Sign your TRMSA once and then add products as you go simply by using an order form and product schedules. That's how you or your affiliates can use the TRMSA to quickly order additional products or services whenever you need them.

REUTERS/Yannis Behrakis

Simplicity

One set of clear, consistent legal and commercial terms for products or services purchased across Thomson Reuters businesses

Ease

Uncomplicated approach to ordering multiple products and services

Speed

Shorter end-to-end execution of future purchases

Want more information?

Refer to the Thomson Reuters Procurement Guide.