It is important to highlight that 2027 will not be a test year. Therefore, the product updates described in this guide are designed to support customers in preparing and operating under the applicable Tax Reform requirements during the transition period.

The CBS Authority and IS Authority, responsible for the federal CBS (Contribution on Goods and Services) and IS (Selective Tax), together with the IBS Authority for state and municipal IBS taxes, have been introduced into Brazil's tax system. Determination has incorporated these new tax authorities, as demonstrated below.

These authorities enable customers to start configuring, validating, and preparing their tax determination processes in alignment with the Tax Reform framework. While 2026 is considered a test year, it is important to emphasize that 2027 will no longer be a test year, requiring customers to be ready to operate under the applicable transition rules and compliance requirements. As demonstrated below, Determination has incorporated these tax authorities to support this preparation.

1.2 – CBS, IBS and IS Rates

CBS and IBS rates have been incorporated into Determination to support the configuration, validation, and execution of tax determination scenarios during Brazil's Tax Reform transition period, including the 2026 testing framework and preparation for 2027 operations. The content reflects the new federal, state, and municipal authorities introduced by Complementary Law No. 214/2025; however, under Article 18, the CBS and IBS reference rates remain subject to definition by Federal Senate resolution before the applicable 2027 rates can be fully reflected in the product.

For IS, related to the Selective Tax, the Brazil IS authority has been created with the standard rates ZR and NL and an effective start date of January 1, 2027. At this stage, implementation is limited to the structural availability of the authority and standard rates (ZR and NL) framework, while Thomson Reuters continues to monitor pending legal and technical definitions, including applicable IS rates, goods and services subject to the tax, classifications, calculation requirements, and related engine capabilities.

4 - General Notes

For 2026, Determination, integration, and content have been enhanced to support the Complementary Law 214/2025.

According to Technical Note 2025.002, version 1.20, published on the NF-e portal, there is a provision allowing the exclusion of IBS and CBS from the total amount of the Electronic Invoice in 2026, for example, in field VB01-10. However, considering that the Technical Note has an infra-legal nature and that the requirements applicable to taxpayers for using this exclusion have not been specified, Thomson Reuters will continue to include IBS and CBS both in the item-level totals and the total invoice amount.

As a complementary measure, the calculation engine allows customers to configure, through the Company Admin Options, whether CBS and IBS should be included in the composition of the total invoice amount.

For the fiscal year 2027, we anticipate the inclusion of new Brazil Tax Reform legislation in the composition of the total invoice value.

The screenshot displays the Thomson Reuters Indirect Tax - TDR LINTL web application interface. The main heading is "Tax Logic & Company Admin". Under "Tax Logic Preferences", there are dropdowns for "Message Threshold Preference" (set to "Informational: all messages") and "Override International Product Group" (set to "None"). Below these are "Override US Product Group" (set to "None") and "Company Admin Options". The "Company Admin Options" section includes a dropdown for "Options" (set to "Include CBS IBS tax amount in total tax amount") and a "Values" dropdown menu. The "Values" dropdown is open, showing options: "Select", "Yes", and "No". The "Select" option is highlighted with a green checkmark. At the bottom, there are navigation buttons: "< PREVIOUS", "Next >", "Save", and "Cancel".

- General rules have been made available for various products/services with zero rate, exemption (100%), 30% reduction, 40% reduction and 60% reduction. These rules require the definition of the cClassTrib according to the product or service used in the transaction. To ensure the correct application and definition of the information, the client should contact the Support team. Additionally, as provided for in Article 344, sole paragraph, item I, of Complementary Law No. 214/2025, the applicable rate reductions will remain valid for the year 2027. Therefore, tax treatments with reductions — such as 30%, 40%, and 60% reductions, when applicable — will continue to be considered in accordance with the rules and conditions established by the legislation in force.
- The current guidelines established by the Tax Reform determine that taxation must occur at the destination of the transaction. Considering this new assessment model, specific step-by-step instructions were developed to support the parameterization and creation of Municipal IBS authorities, as presented in Annex I, entitled "How to Create an Authority customized for Municipal IBS." This model will allow the client to configure any municipality in Determination.

5 - 2026 Calculation Method

A 2026 calculation method, Brazil CBS-IBS is available in Determination that supports the requirements established by the CBS and IBS authorities. Additionally, a new response element is available that identifies the reduction in the taxable basis, as provided for in the current legislation.

6 – BR TAX REFORM CODES

6.1 – CST Codes

CST-IBS/CBS codes identify the tax status of a good or service in relation to the taxes. These CST codes identify the tax treatments of taxed, exempt, subject to a reduced rate, or subject to special regimes. Correct use of a CST code is required for reporting information on Electronic Tax Documents (DF-e), such as the NF-e and the NFS-e. For more details, see Technical Report 2025.002 (governmental rule) - Version 1.11.

6.2 - NBS - Brazilian Nomenclature of Services

The content was provided in accordance with the correlation table of NBS items, the indicative codes for consumption operations (clndOp), and the classification codes for consumption operations (cClassTrib). For the content to be correctly applied, it is essential to provide the service code established in Complementary Law No. 116/2003, as well as the NBS code indicated in the correlation table made available by the RFB - Documentacao Tecnica - RFB .How to use the qualifier – vide example 2.4.

Annex II provides a list of NBS codes and their respective corresponding articles in Complementary Law No. 214/2025.

6.3 - cClasstrib content

The cClassTrib (Tax Classification Code) was created as part of the Consumption Tax Reform, as provided for by law: Complementary Law No. 214, dated January 16, 2025, which established the tax model with the CBS and IBS, and defined the CST and cClassTrib codes to classify tax operations. These details can be accessed in the XML Output, as illustrated in the image below:

6.4 - Qualifier content

Brazil Tax Reform content was designed to address a broad range of tax scenarios introduced by Complementary Law No. 214/2025, including reduced rates, exemptions, zero-rate treatments, specific operations, and other differentiated tax treatments applicable to CBS and IBS. To support the correct identification and application of each legal scenario in Enterprise Cloud Determination, specific content was created using the relevant article or annex name as the qualifier, whenever applicable. This approach allows the system to distinguish the legal basis associated with each reduction, exemption, or related tax treatment, as demonstrated in the example below.

2027 - Second Year of the Brazilian Tax Reform Transition Period

By 2027, our content will be standardized and updated to meet the needs of State IBS and IBS-City. At the state level, we ensure full coverage of all 27 federative units (UFs), with consistent authorities and parameters to support tax assessment and configuration in each state.

At the municipal level, we provide IBS-City content currently covering 1,701 municipalities, with rules and structures aligned with the destination-based taxation model, increasing calculation adherence and reducing maintenance/configuration effort for customers.

Additionally, for the Selective Tax — expected to start in January 2027 — the corresponding authority is available in the roadmap as the legal definitions advance. Although the Selective Tax authority is already available in the product, we continue to monitor future legislation and official guidance that may define key pending elements required for full implementation. The most relevant items still subject to further definition include the applicable tax rates, the detailed scope of products and classifications subject to the tax, and the specific calculation and compliance rules. Further product updates may be delivered as these definitions are formally published by the Brazilian tax authorities.

In addition, Thomson Reuters has been developing adjustments to some calculation methods, to be released in Q3/2026, to:

- a) include CBS, IBS and IS on a taxable basis of ISS.
- b) include CBS, IBS and IS on a taxable basis of ICMS.
- c) Include CBS/IBS on the taxable basis of IPI.
- d) Include IS on the taxable basis of CBS/IBS.

Thomson Reuters continues to closely monitor legislative developments related to Brazil's Indirect Tax Reform. Additional regulations and guidance are still expected to be enacted, and our Brazil Indirect Tax Research team reviews these updates daily. As new provisions are officially published, this document will be updated to reflect the latest information available.

With a long-standing commitment to delivering timely and accurate tax content, Thomson Reuters will support customers through ONESOURCE Determination throughout the Brazil Tax Reform transition. During this period, the solution will help manage both the current tax framework and the new system in parallel, as further details are defined by future legislation.
