Amid the gradual decline of M&A activity from its 2021 frenetic pace, early returns for 2023 imply muted but no less lucrative possibilities for impactful middle market transactions. For all the concern over macroeconomic uncertainty and geopolitical tumult, robust private equity dry powder and renewed interest in key sectors such as automobiles, manufacturing, and technology augur a selective and more strategic path forward for savvy deals professionals. This opening conversation explores the shifting realities of the US middle market amid protracted change. How content are corporate development and deals professionals to wait out the economic downtown? What regulatory developments bear scrutiny under the newly installed 118th United States Congress? 10:30am – 11:30am  Patience & Fortitude: The Market Moves of Private Equity Recent reports suggest that private equity (PE) firms will drive approximately 30% to 40% of global deal flow in 2023. Yet with higher interest rates and growing market saturation hindering momentum, the outlook for a solid year to come may ultimately fall short of expectations. This year’s private equity roundtable examines the tantalizing potentiality and attendant risk facing an evolving sector. Pressure to navigate near-term uncertainty alongside a greater focus on market differentiation are just some of the top concerns facing firms today. How are private equity leaders managing risk—and leading enterprise change—in the current climate?

11:30am – 12:30pm Risky Business: Navigating ESG Risk and Opportunities in Middle Market Deals
ESG is in a dynamic phase, posing both risks and opportunities in the current deal landscape for the US middle market. On the one hand, there are increased calls for transparency around corporate governance, supply chains, sustainability, and climate risk, in particular for private equity funds that may be considering the public markets as a potential exit strategy. On the other hand, there is a rising, anti-ESG backlash within the United States creating conflicting expectations for both operating companies and asset managers who are answering to limited partners across the political spectrum. This presentation offers the latest guidance for buyers and sellers. How can corporate legal and deal professionals anticipate or avoid potential pitfalls in a rapidly evolving environment? What strategies can help mitigate risk throughout the deal process and after? And what opportunities does the current environment create?

12:30pm – 1:30pm Networking Luncheon

1:30pm – 2:30pm Once the Ink Dries: Optimizing Deal Value through Seamless Post-Merger Integration
Successful post-merger integration (PMI) is both a science and art. As business priorities continue to shift, and more attention is paid toward scope and capability acquisitions, traditional playbooks cede ground to bespoke, contoured solutions emblematic of a market transformed. Truly impactful PMI is about value creation in organizations. Companies who recognize the importance of six core pillars—culture, purpose, people, data, technology, and clients—are best positioned for long-term growth, while those who deploy a less comprehensive approach face significantly higher probability of failure. This session addresses three key areas for PMI leaders: culture, purpose, and people. How can newly formed entities reconcile disparate work environments behind a cohesive vision? What strategies exist to align compensation models, redundancies, professional development plans, and more within the new enterprise?

2:30pm – 3:30pm Bold Endeavors: Considerations & Opportunity in Distressed M&A
With market volatility still abound, opportunities for dealmakers within distressed M&A are poised to rebound in 2023. Aided in large part by recessionary fears, many companies have turned toward preserving cash and liquidity and engaging in exploratory divestitures throughout the COVID-19 recovery phase. Leading a distressed M&A process is a unique experience—and one where limited time, bandwidth, or requisite business intelligence may result in unforeseen liabilities or missed revenue opportunity for even the most experienced dealmaker. This discussion offers an informed perspective on managing the distressed M&A sales process from valuation to consummation in large and mid-market deals.
